This publication will be worth purchasing. It really is written in simple terms instead of difficult to understand. It's been designed in an exceptionally simple way and is particularly only right after I finished reading this ebook in which basically modified me, alter the way I believe.

BOEHM SYNDROME

Condition: New. Publisher/Verlag: Alphascript Publishing | Epithelium, Stroma of cornea, Dystrophy, Biological membrane | Please note that the content of this book primarily consists of articles available from Wikipedia or other free sources online. Boehm Syndrome is a symptom-specific map-dot-fingerprint dystrophy of the cornea. The epithelium is separated from the stroma by a membrane. In map-dot-fingerprint dystrophy, this membrane develops abnormally exhibiting a map-like appearance or perhaps opaque dots. Sometimes lines are formed that resemble small fingerprints. In some cases, this irregular structure can lead to painful epithelial erosions. In Boehm Syndrome, recurrent epithelial erosions occur only when the eyelids are opened after some period of sleep. Recurrent corneal erosions may happen at any time of night or day. Boehm Syndrome does not. It occurs only when the inside of the eyelid tears away epithelial cells after minutes or hours of sleep. This may expose nerve endings, causing moderate to severe pain for hours or days. Once the erosions begin, even periods of brief sleep can exacerbate the problem. | Format: Paperback | Language/Sprache: english | 113 gr | 220x150x4 mm | 72 pp.
